9:50am – 10:40am	Panel Discussion: Why NYU Wagner? Current Student Perspectives David Schachter , Assistant Dean of Student Affairs and Adjunct Assistant Professor of Public Administration, will lead a discussion with current students about their NYU Wagner experience. Panelists include:	Kimmel, 10th Floor, Rosenthal Pavilion
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">■ Safiya Arnaout, MPA-Health Policy and Management, 2014 Full-time student, Specialization: International Health■ Conor Muldoon, Master of Urban Planning, 2014 Full-time student, Specialization: Economic Development and Housing■ Raquel Vazquez, MPA-Public and Nonprofit Management and Policy, 2015 Part-time student, Specialization: Public Policy Analysis
10:40am – 11:00am	Break
11:00am – 12:00pm	WAGTalks In these short talks, four of our premier faculty scholars will present on topics about which they are especially passionate.	Kimmel, 10th Floor, Rosenthal Pavilion
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">■ Beth Simone Noveck, Jacob K. Javits Visiting Professor, “Big Data, Small Data, Open Data” In this brief introduction, we will survey the landscape of how government is and could be using data to create jobs, catalyze innovation, and improve people’s lives. We’ll talk about the pragmatic, positive, and purposeful things we can affirmatively do with data and examine the question of how data complements and substitutes for traditional forms of policymaking.

- Karen Grépin, Assistant Professor of Global Health Policy, “Is educating girls the fastest way to improve child health in the developing world today?”

Improving health and education in the developing world are important priorities for the international community and both are targets in the Millennium Development Goals. Research from Zimbabwe suggests that improving access to maternal secondary education can greatly improve child survival. In the post-2015 world, we will argue that one of the most important untapped interventions to improving child health might be improving access to secondary schools.

- Nirupama Rao, Assistant Professor of Economics and Public Policy, “The 47 or 67 Percent? Makers, Takers, and the Lifecycle of Tax Liabilities”

The fact that 47 percent of Americans paid no federal income taxes in 2011 drew considerable attention during the most recent presidential election cycle. Whether not paying federal taxes and/or receiving transfer benefits is symptomatic of a culture of dependency, where the federal government is in effect subsidizing the obsolescence of skills and labor force dis-attachment, depends in part on how chronic these states are. We will examine how individuals enter and leave these states over their lifetimes.

- Mitchell L. Moss, Henry Hart Rice Professor of Urban Policy & Planning, “The Future of New York”

How will new information technologies, demographic trends, and global forces shape the future of New York City? The city faces new challenges in the 21st century, and this talk will explore why New York is a magnet for people from across the nation and world, and factors that will influence its future economic and physical development.

PARTICIPATING ADJUNCT FACULTY

For a complete list of our full-time and clinical faculty, including those participating in Admitted Student Day, please refer to the Admitted Student Handbook, Ready for Transformation.

ADJUNCT FACULTY

Diana Beck

Adjunct Assistant Professor of Public Administration

Diana Beck is the Assistant Director of Health and Doctoral Programs at NYU Wagner and is the primary administrative advisor for these programs. Previously, Diana was an Associate Research Scientist at the Center for Health and Public Service Research where she worked on several projects relating to performance of the health care delivery system, barriers to access to care, and longitudinal analyses of hospital admissions and emergency department utilization. Diana is also an adjunct professor at NYU Wagner.

Carolyn A. Berry

Adjunct Associate Professor of Public Administration

Carolyn Anne Berry holds a Ph.D. in Community Psychology from New York University. Her current research focuses on the health and healthcare of low-income children and families, and includes both investigator-initiated research and program evaluation. She recently concluded a five year grant from the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS) entitled "Social Factors and the Environment in Pediatric Asthma" that investigates racial/ethnic disparities in childhood asthma. Carolyn conducted an outcome evaluation of the SchoolFood Plus Initiative, a program designed to enhance the nutrition of children in the NYC public school system.

Carolyn and Dr. Dennis Smith are in the final stages of a process study of WeCARE, a recently implemented program designed to provide specialized assessments and services to the public assistance population that is unable to work immediately. That program and study are funded by the NYC Department of Social Services/Human Resources Administration. Carolyn is part of an NYU Wagner team working on the national evaluation of "Expecting Success," a demonstration project funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to address disparities in cardiac health care at 10 hospitals with large volumes of racial and ethnic minorities.

Irshad Manji

Founder & Director, Moral Courage Project

Irshad Manji is the Founder and Director of the Moral Courage Project, which equips students to make values-based decisions. She has turned her journey as a religious reformer into teachings about professional leadership, informed by cutting-edge research from across disciplines.

As a reformist Muslim, Irshad puts moral courage into practice. Her latest book, Allah, Liberty & Love, is a guide to reconciling faith and freedom in a world raging with repressive dogmas. Fareed Zakaria of CNN and Time magazine lauds Allah, Liberty & Love as being "at the forefront of some crucially important trends" that are "changing the world of Islam." Irshad's previous book is the international bestseller The Trouble with Islam Today: A Muslim's Call for Reform in Her Faith. In-between her books, she created the Emmy-nominated PBS documentary Faith Without Fear.

In both the business and nonprofit arenas, Irshad's work has earned high recognition. The World Economic Forum named her as a Young Global Leader. The New York Society for Ethical Culture gave her its rare Ethical Humanist Award. And Oprah Winfrey bestowed on Irshad the first annual Chutzpah Award for "audacity, nerve, boldness and conviction."

David Schachter

Assistant Dean for Student Affairs and Adjunct Assistant Professor of Public Administration

David Schachter is the Assistant Dean for Student Affairs at NYU Wagner. Focusing on the totality of the student experience, he oversees student and program services, career services, alumni relations, and the Capstone program. He teaches the Composing Your Career workshop, and he has offered training, consulting, and facilitation nationally in the areas of leadership, staff development, supervision, team building, training of the trainer, and career planning. David received the 2006 NACE/Chevron Outstanding Achievement Award for Innovative Programs in Career Services for his partnership with Action Without Borders/Idealist.org on the creation of the Institute on Public Service Careers, a series of conferences designed to educate college career services professionals from across the country on how to increase the visibility and accessibility of public service careers to their students. He has served on the Idealist.org advisory board and contributed to The Idealist Guide to Nonprofit Careers and The Idealist Guide to Nonprofit Careers for Sector Switchers. David received his Master of Public Administration from NYU Wagner and a BFA from NYU's Tisch School of the Arts.

Rachel Swaner

Adjunct Assistant Professor of Public Administration

Rachel Swaner is Associate Director of Research at the Center for Court Innovation. She is currently the project director of the evaluation of the Defending Childhood Initiative, a U.S. Department of Justice multi-site initiative to address children's exposure to violence. She is also the research coordinator for a study on youth engaged in the commercial sex market, and evaluated a gun violence reduction program in Brownsville, Brooklyn. She was previously a researcher and evaluator at Harlem Children's Zone. She is on the advisory board for the Participatory Budgeting Project. Rachel received her Ph.D. in Sociology from the CUNY Graduate Center, and her Bachelor of Science and Master of Public Administration from New York University.

Scott Taitel

Adjunct Associate Professor of Finance

Scott Taitel is Chief Operating Officer for the William J. Clinton Foundation's Clinton Giustra Sustainable Growth Initiative. As Chief Operating Officer, Mr. Taitel is responsible for the financial, operational, and project management oversight of economic development, health, and nutrition projects in multiple countries, including Colombia, Mexico, and Peru. Scott also oversees impact investment funds in both Colombia and Haiti. Prior to joining the William J. Clinton Foundation, Mr. Taitel was a Managing Partner of Waypoint Investments, a venture capital firm, where he managed an international investment portfolio and served in interim management roles in portfolio companies.

His prior experience also includes roles as Chief Operating Officer for TASKING B.V., a Netherlands-based software company with operations in six countries; CFO and Vice President of Active Control eXperts, an Inc. 500 OEM manufacturer of piezoelectric motion control devices; and Vice President of Intermetrics Microsystems Software, Inc., a software developer with operations in the U.S., Europe, and Asia. His earlier career was as an economic development planner with both City and Community Action Agencies. Scott has an undergraduate degree in Policy Studies from Syracuse University and an MBA from Northeastern University where he taught various Financial Management courses for 15 years as an adjunct faculty member.

Tim Tompkins

Adjunct Assistant Professor of Urban Planning

Tim Tompkins has been the President of the Times Square Alliance since 2002. He is currently the Co-Chair of the NYC BID Association and a member of the International Downtown Association (IDA) Board. Prior to joining the Alliance, he was the Founder and Director of Partnerships for Parks, which works to support New York City's neighborhood parks and which won an Innovations in Government Award from the JFK School of Government at Harvard University for its work to restore the Bronx River.

He has also worked at New York City's Economic Development Corporation, The New York City Charter Revision Commission, and was briefly the Nationals Editor at the Mexico City News, an English language newspaper in Mexico. He has an undergraduate degree from Yale and an M.B.A. from Wharton, and currently teaches Transforming the Urban Economy and The Arts and Artist in Urban Revitalization at NYU Wagner. When not in the most urban and unnatural place on the planet, he enjoys spending time in New York's more natural areas, ideally sailing or practicing yoga.

Michael West

Adjunct Lecturer on Public Administration

Michael West is Department Manager for the Department of Sociology at NYU. He has previously served in the Provost's Office at NYU, where he developed services and programming for special populations at the University, and as the Chief of Staff in the Business Office at Hunter College, which is part of the City University of New York. He holds an M.P.A. in Nonprofit Management and Policy from the Wagner Graduate School of Public Service at NYU and an M.A. in Higher Education and Student Personnel Administration from the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development at NYU. He has over 10 years of professional experience in higher education administration and financial management, and is interested in not-for-profit fiscal decision-making and policy, as well as financial statement analysis.
