This program trains registered nurses in leadership and management roles to make an even greater impact on today’s complex healthcare system. The curriculum includes health policy, health administration, and executive-level management, helping nurses advance their careers. The degree offers:

- CONVENIENCE: Required classes are held on-site at an NYC hospital facility, making it easier to fit courses into your work schedule.

- A Powerful Network: You will form a close community with your classmates and gain valuable connections to leaders in the field.

- Practical Application: The final Capstone project allows you and your team to solve a real-life organizational challenge for a healthcare client.

MAKE AN IMPACT AT THE HIGHEST LEVEL

NYU Wagner’s experienced and engaged faculty are invested in each student’s success and offer mentorship throughout the program. Alumni take on leadership roles at top healthcare institutions, including New York-Presbyterian Hospital, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, the Visiting Nurse Service of New York, and other organizations nationwide.

“The EMPA-Nurse Leaders program was invaluable in helping me shape and advance my nursing career. With expert guidance from faculty, the Capstone program allowed me to use new skills in real-world situations. NYU Wagner’s range of electives, including non-healthcare courses, broadened my scope and gave me insight into new ways to lead change in the world.”

- John Barazzuol (EMPA-Nurse Leader 2014), MPA RN ACRN, Senior Staff Nurse, New York Presbyterian Hospital-Weill Cornell Medical Center
