The course serves as a comprehensive foundation for those aspects of human resource planning, development and administration vital to the human resource manager, line managers, and senior leaders.

Course Learning Objectives

Through the text readings, journal articles, case presentation and discussion, and student presentations students will acquire the ability to:

1. Create executive decision-making strategies, as applied to human resources management
2. Establish organizational workforce plans, in alignment with organizational goals and objectives
3. Establish staff training and development programs, in alignment with organizational goals and objectives
4. Implement successful recruitment and retention processes
5. Evaluate workforce productivity

6. Understand and value the strategic role of human resources management in a health care organization
7. Understand and value the role of human resources in effectively managing organizational transformation
8. Understand and value the impact of workforce diversity and globalization on health care

Learning Assessment

Assignments, exams, and class participation in the course will assess progress against these competencies, and no student will receive a B or higher without demonstration of satisfactory progress towards mastery of each competency. Expected levels of competency are denoted below:

Level of Competency

In addition, the level of competency expected to be achieved should be denoted, according to the following key:

[1] = Basic: Foundational understanding of knowledge/skill/competency

[2] = Intermediate: Student demonstrates greater depth of understanding of this knowledge/skill/competency and can use this ability to analyze a problem

[3] = Advanced: Student demonstrates expertise in this knowledge/skill/competency and can use this ability to evaluate, judge, and synthesize information

A-	3.7 points

B+	3.3 points
B	3.0 points
B-	2.7 points
C+	2.3 points
C	2.0 points
C-	1.7 points
F	0.0 points

Student grades will be assigned according to the following criteria:

- (A) Excellent: Exceptional work for a graduate student. Work at this level is unusually thorough, well-reasoned, creative, methodologically sophisticated, and well written. Work is of exceptional, professional quality.
- (A-) Very good: Very strong work for a graduate student. Work at this level shows signs of creativity, is thorough and well-reasoned, indicates strong understanding of appropriate methodological or analytical approaches, and meets professional standards.
- (B+) Good: Sound work for a graduate student; well-reasoned and thorough, methodologically sound. This is the graduate student grade that indicates the student has fully accomplished the basic objectives of the course.
- (B) Adequate: Competent work for a graduate student even though some weaknesses are evident. Demonstrates competency in the key course objectives but shows some indication that understanding of some important issues is less than complete.
Methodological or analytical approaches used are adequate but student has not been thorough or has shown other weaknesses or limitations.
- (B-) Borderline: Weak work for a graduate student; meets the minimal expectations for a graduate student in the course. Understanding of salient issues is somewhat incomplete. Methodological or analytical work performed in the course is minimally adequate. Overall performance, if consistent in graduate courses, would not suffice to sustain graduate status in “good standing.”
- (C/-/+) Deficient: Inadequate work for a graduate student; does not meet the minimal expectations for a graduate student in the course. Work is inadequately developed or flawed by numerous errors and misunderstanding of important issues. Methodological or analytical work performed is weak and fails to demonstrate knowledge or technical competence expected of graduate students.

- (F) Fail: Work fails to meet even minimal expectations for course credit for a graduate student. Performance has been consistently weak in methodology and understanding, with serious limits in many areas. Weaknesses or limits are pervasive.

Major Course Assignments

Team Assignment: Funding Request

- Students, working in teams, will develop and present, in class, a 10-minute presentation to a mock Medical Center Resource (Funding) committee. The teams represent a mid-size (20-40 FTE) organizational unit in a large inner city Academic Medical Center. The Center's primary mission is to provide comprehensive health care services to a largely poor ethnically diverse population. The Center is facing financial challenges; your unit however has a need to expand to meet a growing demand for its services. Your request should address the following criteria:
 - The type of organizational unit,
 - The number, types and kinds of positions requested,
 - How is the request aligned to the organization's strategic goals?
 - How performance for this initiative will be evaluated,
 - Budget considerations, and
 - An analysis of the current staffing addressing why the need cannot be met through staff realignment, efficiencies, or system re-design
- Each team will provide a brief handout summarizing the request for class participants.

(NOTE: Teams can use a real situations or create a scenario that meets the assignment requirements)

EVALUATION CRITERIA & GRADING – ASSIGNMENT #1

- Presentations will be scored on a scale of 1-3 (3= Excellent; 2.5-2.9= above average; 2.0-2.5= average; 1.0-1.9= below average; <1.0= not acceptable) on how well each of the criteria are addressed
 - The type of organizational unit,
 - The number, types and kinds of positions requested,
 - How is the request aligned to the organization's strategic goals?
 - How performance will be evaluated,
 - Budget considerations, and
 - An analysis of the current staffing, addressing why the need cannot be met through staff realignment, efficiencies or system re-design

Literature Review (Pairs)

Topics:

- Best practices to ensure support of healthcare providers in times of medical crisis
- Effectively Managing Telework teams
- Sustaining and engaging a diverse workforce
- Best practices for onboarding and engaging a remote workforce
- Interviewing, selecting, and onboarding remote staff

- Or a topic of your choosing, approved by the Professor

The paper may address the topic in general, or further narrow the focus of the review within that topic. For the selected topic, complete a 4/5-page (double-spaced, excluding references) literature review, citing references, discussing the state of evidence on the topic, identifying potential best practices, and summarizing your findings, conclusions and any workplace recommendations. From the references you cite, prepare an annotated bibliography on 8 – 10 of the most relevant articles. Discuss the strengths and weaknesses of each article and applicability to a management setting.

Module 3 – Professional Staff & Workforce Planning

Introduction to Module: This module takes a closer look at the diverse occupations that constitute a healthcare organization, such as allied healthcare workers, paraprofessionals, and support staff. Ensuring credentials, licensure, and skills is a key aspect of human resource management in healthcare organizations. Determining the numbers, types, and kinds of staff needed for the organization is also a critical aspect of the overall management of the workforce

- Topics

 - With a widely diverse workforce in healthcare (diverse occupations, human diversity, cultural diversity) what are the challenges organizations face in ensuring an effective and widely diverse workforce is in place, or stated in another way—How do you ensure you have a workforce that has the right number of staff with the right skills in the present and the future to meet the patient's needs?
 - Consider how the delivery of healthcare is changing; with healthcare providers not necessarily in a face-to-face session, how does this affect providing care? Specifically, how would the use of telemedicine for remote-site interpretation of diagnostic image x-rays (by providers outside of the organization and maybe outside of the country) affect credentialing/privileging decisions?

Module 4 – Job design & Recruitment

Introduction to Module - In Module 3 we will focus on specific jobs/positions in healthcare organizations. The importance of conducting a job analysis is to determine the knowledge, skills, and competencies needed by the individual positions and how understanding the needed competencies are essential to successful human resource management of the workforce. We will also explore the changing nature of healthcare jobs. Once positions have been established and analysis conducted, the next step is to develop a recruitment plan. We will explore the essential aspects of successful recruitment and the pros and cons of using social media. In addition, students will identify positions in their own organizations, conduct a job analysis, and use O*Net OnLine to assess the position and create a recruitment plan for the position.

- Topics
 - Job Design and Job Analysis
 - Recruitment
- Readings
 - Sampson & Fried: Human resources management in healthcare: managing for success. 5th ed. Chicago, IL: Health Administration Press; Chapters 6 and Chapter 7 pages 199 – 220.
- Assignment
 - Select a position in your organizations and review the current job description, along with any job analyses that may have been developed. (HR may actually have the job analysis.) Using the selected documents and job information from O*Net, identify 3-4 key competencies that you'd expect from applicants for the position starting on the very first day of the job. In other words, what should someone in this position be able to do on their very first day of work? Keep notes on your findings
 - Outline 4–5 bullet points describing how you would recruit for this position, including where and how you advertise the position. Submit your response using the assignment link. Grade Pass/Fail
- In-class discussion
 - What would happen if a healthcare organization decided not to use job descriptions?
 - Recruiting through the internet (and social media) – what are the advantages and disadvantages? What are the risks?

Module 5 – Interview & Selection

Introduction to Module - In Module 4, we continue the discussion on individual positions. We will expand on successful recruitment strategies, candidate selection, and staff retention. Specifically, we will discuss best interviewing techniques, how to determine the best candidate, and, once selected, how to retain these employees. We will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of internal and external recruitment, various common selection tools, reference checking, and reasons why candidates accept offers

- Topics
 - Interviews and Selection
 - Staff Retention
- Readings:
 - Sampson & Fried: Human resources management in healthcare: managing for success. 5th ed. Chicago, IL: Health Administration Press; Chapters 7 pages 220-237 and Chapter 8.
- Assignment
 - Watch video – “More than a Gut Feeling”
 - Using the job description and analysis from O*Net from Module 3, develop 3–5 appropriate behavior-based interview questions for candidates and a rating scale to assess their responses.
- Resources

 - High-Impact Interview Questions: 701 Behavior-Based Questions to Find the Right Person for Every Job, Second Edition By: Victoria A. Hoevemeyer.
- In-class discussion
 - Given equally qualified candidates one from internal recruitment and one from external recruitment how would you go about deciding which one to hire.
 - For various reasons, some healthcare organizations are unable to pay market rates for certain positions. What advice would you give such an organization about possible recruitment and retention strategies.

Module 6 – Compensation, Performance, & Wellness

Introduction to Module - This module explores three distinct aspects of HR in healthcare: performance management, staff compensation, and staff development. While distinct, they are all related and central to the delivery of high-quality healthcare. One of the goals of HR management in healthcare is to foster high levels of performance and commitment from individuals and teams. Performance management refers to a set of tools and practices used for setting performance goals, measuring individual performance, and designing strategies to continue and sustain improvement, as well as providing ongoing feedback. Performance appraisal is an often-used term that tends to limit the process to measurement only. We will also look at compensation and the complexities of total compensation in a healthcare organization. Finally, we will discuss employee wellness.

- Topics

- Compensation
- Performance
- Wellness

- Readings:

- Sampson & Fried: Human resources management in healthcare: managing for success. 5th ed. Chicago, IL: Health Administration Press; Chapters 9,10,16

- Assignment

- Non-Monetary Compensation: Although monetary compensation is an important part of retaining a high performing workforce, factors such as non-monetary compensation make a difference when an organization is unable to offer market rate salaries and must examine other ways to compete. Outline 5–6 bullet points describing types of non-monetary compensation that might entice an employee to work for a lower salary; explain why these would be seen as especially valuable in lieu of an increased salary.
- Performance Management: Providing performance feedback is a challenge for both supervisors, as well as employees. Think about the best feedback session you have been a part of (either giving feedback or receiving feedback); what made the session successful? Now think about a session that was not successful; why was it not successful, and what could have been done differently? Outline 3–4 bullets on what makes a successful feedback session good
- New Employee On-boarding: Research the best practices in on-boarding new staff. Outline 7–10 of the best ideas you find.

Module 7 – Team Presentation

- Team Presentations
